DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's response to the office action filed on March 19, 2007 has been entered. The claims pending in this application are claims 1, 4-34, 36, 45, 46, 86-90, 157-181, 183, 212, 213, 263-267, and 280-296 wherein claims 46, 88, 212, 213, 266, and 267 have been withdrawn due to species election. Rejection and/or objection not reiterated from the previous office action are hereby withdrawn in view of the response filed on March 19, 2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Enablement

Claims 1, 4-34, 36, 45, 86, 87, 89, 90, 157-181, 183, 263-265, 280-283, and 293-296 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

In In re Wands, 858 F.2d 731,737, 8 USPQ2d 1400, 1404 (Fed. Cir. 1988) the court considered the issue of enablement in molecular biology. The Court summarized eight factors to be considered in a determination of "undue experimentation". These factors include: (a) the quantity of experimentation necessary; (b) the amount of direction or guidance presented; (c) the presence or absence of working examples; (d) the nature of the invention; (e) the state of the prior art; (f) the relative skill of those in the art; (g) the predictability of the art; and (h) the breadth of the claims. The Court also stated that although the level of skill in molecular biology is high, results of experiments in molecular biology are unpredictable.

To begin, there is no direction or guidance in the specification to show that the methods recited in claims 1, 4-34, 36, 45, 86, 87, 89, 90, 157-181, 183, 263-265, 280-283, and 293-296 can be performed. While the relative skill in the art is very high (the Ph.D. degree with laboratory experience), there is no predictability whether 1, 4-34, 36, 45, 86, 87, 89, 90, 157-181, 183, 263-265, 280-283, and 293-296 can be performed.

First, claims 1, 4-34, 36, 45, 86, 87, 89, 90, 157-181, 183, 263-265, 280-283, and 293-296 are directed to a method for analyzing exon expression in a cell sample. Although it is known that real-time RT-PCR (see Saegusa et al., (Jpn. J. Cancer Res., 89, 291-298, 1998) and nucleic acid arrays can be used to measure expression levels of a plurality of different individual exons or different individual multiexons in each of a plurality of different genes in the genome of an organism from which said cell sample is derived, since claims 1, 10, 284, and 285 do not require that each of the plurality of different genes or a sample comprising RNAs or nucleic acids contains different splicing forms, when a gene in the plurality of different genes or RNAs or nucleic acids does not contain different splicing forms, it is unclear how to differentiate the nucleic acid expression level of a whole gene from the nucleic acid expression level of individual exons or individual multiexons of the whole gene using real-time RT-PCR or nucleic acid arrays.

Second, since claim 10 does not require that the polynucleotide probes on the positionally-addressable array contains probes which hybridize to different splicing forms of the

at least one gene recited in claim 1, it is unclear how to measuring, in vitro, the nucleic acid expression level of each of said plurality of different variants of said exon in said at least one gene as recited in claim 1.

Third, although claims 284 and 285 are directed to a method for analyzing exon expression, since there is no method step for analyzing exon expression in the claim, it is unclear how to analyze exon expression.

For the reasons discussed above, it is unpredictable how the methods recited in claims 1, 4-34, 36, 45, 86, 87, 89, 90, 157-181, 183, 263-265, 280-283, and 293-296 can be performed and it would have required undue experimentation for one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to practice over the full scope of the invention claimed. This is particularly true given the nature of the invention, the state of the prior art, the breadth of the claims, the amount of experimentation necessary, the working examples provided and scarcity of guidance in the specification, and the unpredictable nature of the art. The undue experimentation at least includes to test whether the methods recited in claims 1, 4-34, 36, 45, 86, 87, 89, 90, 157-181, 183, 263-265, 280-283, and 293-296 can be performed.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO

Art Unit: 1634

MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

5. No claim is allowed.
